New swimming pool: Voters to decide on $1.8 million bond issue

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Fifty-three years ago, Granite City voters approved a bond issue to fund a new pool at Wilson Park.

In November, history could repeat itself when voters will have the opportunity to decide whether to appropriate $1,887,057 in bonds for a new pool facility to be built near the ice rink.

The Park District Board decided Wednesday night to go ahead with efforts to build a new facility rather than renovate the current pool, which was non-operational this year. The renovation cost was estimated to be $411,823 by the architectural firm of Hastings and Chivetta, which would oversee the building of the new pool.

"I don't want it to be an issue of whether it's $300,000 or $1.8 million," said park board commissioner George Sykes. "We've got to have a vision and we need the courage to step out and do this. We have to look past tomorrow and create something for the kids in this city."

The park board approved the bond issue measure in the nick of time—the deadline for filing such issues with the board of elections is Friday.

"This isn't something that's just started happening four to six weeks ago," said park board President Nancy Sanders-Miles. "We've been doing this since March and April."

Even if the bond issue passes, it's doubtful that there will be swimming in Wilson Park next summer. Construction estimates call for at least nine months, maybe more. That estimate doesn't include the amount of paperwork which will be shuttled between Granite City and the state health board in order to gain approval of different site plans.

The board chose the new pool option brought forth by Hastings and Chivetta, which had a base cost of $1,732,329. Two alternate plans were added on in the rough cost.

The centerpiece of the new facility proposal is an 8,197 square-foot main pool which includes lap swimming and a possible diving board. There are also plans for a wading pool for children and a corkscrew slide. A new deck area would be put in and the locker rooms would be used in conjunction with the ice rink.

An option rejected by the board would have had the old bathhouse renovated and a new pool put in where the old pool is.

More details on the bond issue/pool proposal in Sunday's Press-Record Journal.

Merchant to buy land for parking

Brown boos 'cheap' price

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A Granite City businessman is paving the way for the elimination of his downtown parking problems.

The City Council on Tuesday authorized the mayor to enter into a redevelopment agreement with Richard Krumrey, owner of Krumrey Home Furnishings, 1305 19th St.

The agreement will relate to the purchase of Tax Incremental Finance property located at 1300 19th St., directly across 19th Street from the furniture store, at Delmar Avenue.

The vote on the measure was 12-1, with Dan Brown casting the lone dissenting vote. Alderman Juanita Crawley was absent from the meeting.

According to the redevelopment agreement, Krumrey would pay the city $1,750—about 56¢ cents a square foot—for the vacant corner lot and construct a parking lot at the site.

City Economic Development Director Alan Ortbals said he is unsure when or how the city came into possession of the property and at what cost.

Brown

Brown said the city is selling the property too cheaply, especially considering the fact that it lies in a redevelopment area.

"I do not believe that the city buying downtown property for $8.50 per square foot and selling downtown property for 56¢ cents is very good business," Brown said.

"We're practically giving it away. And if we want to develop it in the future, we may have to buy it back at a much higher price."

Downtown Committee Chairman Jim Miller said there are not now any other redevelopment plans that include the corner. The land is not valuable to the city, he said, and the city has incurred costs in liability for and maintenance of the property.

Ortbals said the committee is interested in helping out existing downtown merchants in general.

Pontoon attorney's paycheck withheld

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

The rift between the Pontoon Beach village board and village attorney Keith Jensen widened at Tuesday's board meeting.

Usually the motion to pay the village bills is approved without a hitch, but that wasn't the case Tuesday.

Following a motion to amend the bills, the board voted 3-1 to withhold Jensen's paycheck. The board cited difficulty in contacting Jensen along with his absence from regular meetings as reasons for its action. Trustee Bob Abel cast the lone dissenting vote.

"He has been difficult to get a hold of," said village trustee Bob Douglas. "He doesn't do anything for us. He hasn't done anything for us in over a month."

Attempts by the Press-Record to reach Jensen before press time were unsuccessful. Telephone calls to his home phone number resulted in a continuous busy signal. A secretary at his law office said she could not confirm or deny anything in regard to Jensen's whereabouts.

The check, in the amount of $359.90, will be withheld until Jensen comes to collect it.

"What we want to do is hold onto the check," Douglas said. "He can come and get it if he wants."

Last year, Jensen submitted a resignation letter to the board, which turned it down.

Since his services were still being retained by the village, Jensen went before the board about a month ago seeking inclusion in the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund. The board voted down his proposal.

The board has recently bypassed Jensen and gone to attorney Dean Street to handle some legal questions for the village.

Police union lacks confidence in chief

By Mike Myers
and Bob Slate
Staff writers

The Granite City police union voted Wednesday afternoon, 18 to 14, to express its loss of confidence in Police Chief Don Knight's ability to perform his duties, sources in the union said.

A widely-perceived manpower shortage in the department was said to be one of the main reasons behind the vote. Officers said Knight's structuring and scheduling at the department has left too few officers on the street.

A shortage of officers last week-end caused officers to fear for their safety. Police responding to a disturbance at a wedding reception at Granite City Bowl had to "tactically withdraw" from the disturbance until support from other law enforcement agencies could arrive, Knight said.

The chief said he was disappointed in the union vote, and that he believes it reflects "frustration" on the part of some officers.

"But, I accept it (the vote). There has to be a chief and has to be somebody who makes decisions," Knight said.

Woman fights for building

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Harriette Dolosic has a dilemma. Dolosic, of the 4000 block of Old Alton Road in Granite City, may through no fault of her own lose property she owns in downtown Granite City.

She asked the City Council for assistance Tuesday night.

Dolosic told the council that a building she owns at 1812 State St. burned in a fire Jan. 29. She was subsequently sent a notice from the city Aug. 10 saying the building would be demolished if she did not repair it within the next 30 days.

But when Dolosic applied for permits to repair the apartment building, the city's engineering office turned her down, she said.

"Why can't I get a permit to fix it?" she asked.

Mayor Van Dee Cruse, on the advice of City Attorney Mark Goldenberg, declined to answer the question because, he said, the matter could end up in litigation.

Building Inspector John Jakich said Wednesday that Dolosic was not actually denied permits, but that he wanted more information, such as plans and who would do the work. DCL would (See BUILDING, Page 2A)

Late payday prompts rumors

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

If Venice churches could run prayer chains as efficiently as the Venice rumor mill operates, Venice might be the site of endless miracles.

"There's no arguing that," said Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols, and he said he wants to make it clear that the latest rumors of my recent incarceration are grossly exaggerated.

"In fact, they're downright lies," he said. "I want to assure everyone that I wasn't being held by the FBI, DCI, the Boy Scouts or anyone else."

Rumors apparently started flying when paychecks for Venice city employees were late this week because Echols was unavailable to sign them.

The FBI came to his house and picked him up. I personally saw two FBI men load him into their car," said a caller to the Press-Record Journal.

The caller said you can "just tell FBI men" and said Echols had been placed in the witness protection program — "Just ask anyone. Everyone in town knows it."

Actually, Echols said, he went out of town on a personal trip. "I'm a grown-up. If I want to leave town without telling anyone, there is nobody going to tell me I can't," Echols said.

Echols said he always just signs the paychecks whenever Comptroller Roseanne Koelker gives them to him and "I didn't look at the calendar and say, 'I should have paychecks to sign this week.' It never crossed my mind."

Upon arriving back in town, Echols said, "I heard just about everything. I heard the FBI had me. I heard DCI had me in protective custody or something. (See ECHOLS, Page 2A)

Andrew's tail may whip area

The tail of Hurricane Andrew may whip up some more storms here.

"We're keeping an eye on Andrew on radar," said Todd Shea of the National Weather Service. "It could stir up plenty of rain for the St. Louis area."

Storms may roar up from the Louisiana coast and hit head-on with a blast of cool air from Canada, Shea said.

"If the two collide, it could pour as much as 4 inches of rain across Southern Illinois. The rain from Hurricane Andrew may blow in late Thursday, if it doesn't veer off to the south," he said.

After a high in the mid-60s Wednesday, cool Canadian air was predicted to drop the temperature into the upper 70s today, with overnight lows around 60 degrees tonight and Friday.

Fruit growers are hoping for rain from Andrew. Growers will start picking Jonathan apples Sept. 4 and the apples need a lot of rain. The weather service recorded 16.21 inches of moisture through Monday, compared with the normal 23.22 inches for the same period, he said.

Vegetables and flower gardens are in need of rain, too, and some farmers have found 3-inch cracks in dry corn and soybean fields. Soybeans need plenty of rain before harvest.

Lawyer, rail union officers face U.S. racketeering charges

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

A Belleville attorney, his law clerk and two railroad labor union officials were charged with racketeering in a federal indictment released Thursday in East St. Louis.

The two separate but related indictments allege that Stephen M. Tillery of Belleville paid off two union officials to ensure that they would refer cases to him.

Tillery, a partner in the law firm of Carr, Korein, Tillery, Kunin, McIntosh, Glass and Bogard, officially is charged with conspiracy, mail fraud and interstate travel in aid of racketeering.

Tillery previously was a partner in the firm of Kassidy, Bone, Becker, Dix and Tillery, P.C., between 1979 and 1988.

Neither Tillery nor his attorney could be reached for comment at press time.

Also charged were:

James Wolf, a legal assistant and investigator for Tillery who worked on personal-injury cases. He was charged with conspiracy, mail fraud and interstate travel in aid of racketeering. Wolf, who lives in Swansea, also faces one count of making a false declaration before a grand jury.

Martin Barton, general chairman of the United Transportation Union (UTU), also was charged with conspiracy, mail fraud and interstate travel in aid of racketeering. He lives in Troy.

Mark Waldeimer of Sappington, Mo., was charged with mail fraud and interstate travel in aid of racketeering. He is a high-ranking official for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers who represents union members employed by Union Pacific Railroad. He also is an attorney licensed in both Illinois and Missouri.

The four men pleaded innocent Thursday to the charges. The cases will be handled by the U.S. Department of Justice.

Barton said he preferred not to comment on the charges. Wolf and Waldeimer could not be reached for comment.

Tillery paid Barton, Rafael Suria and James Bowlin in the form of business checks and paid expenses for Barton's union campaign expenses. Suria and Bowlin were not charged with any offense.

In return for the checks, the indictment alleges, Barton, Suria and Bowlin recommended Tillery's two law firms, instead of the UTU's regular attorneys, to represent injured railroad employees and UTU members who filed claims under the Federal Employees' Liability Act (FELA).

Suria represented Consolidated

Railroad (Conrail) for the UTU, and Bowlin represented the Terminal Railroad Association (TRRA) for the UTU.

Barton, Suria and Bowlin also allegedly gave Tillery names of injured employees, promoted and advertised Tillery's capabilities and allowed Tillery to meet with members and talk about the kind of representation his law firm could offer, the indictment stated.

Tillery also arranged free hearing tests with UTU employees and discussed legal actions they could take if they suffered hearing loss, the indictment continued.

Wolf allegedly traveled with Tillery to Missouri to meet with the employees about hearing-loss claims, the indictment stated.

The indictment, which alleged that the scheme was arranged in February 1984, outlined 35 separate monetary transactions between Tillery, Barton, Suria and Bowlin over an eight-year period from 1984 to 1991.

Tillery allegedly had a similar arrangement with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (B.L.E.) in which he allegedly paid Waldeimer and donated toward Waldeimer's union campaign, the indictment said.

That alleged arrangement began in March 1986, the indictment stated.

Possession, resisting

William John Robbins Jr., 26, of Glen Carbon was arrested at 2:57 a.m. Aug. 23 for unlawful possession of cannabis, resisting arrest, battery and criminal damage to property.

Officers conducting surveillance at the Sports Park Tavern, 916 Niedringhaus Ave., reported seeing Robbins and three others smoking a handrolled cigarette near a beer garden there.

When officers approached and identified themselves, Robbins allegedly threw the cigarette down, pushed an officer and began to run away.

When an officer caught up with him, Robbins allegedly struggled with the officer, grabbed the officer's hand-held radio and threw it onto the ground.

A clear plastic bag containing a green leafy substance, alleged to be cannabis, was discovered during the report states.

Robbins posted $428 cash as bail and was released.

Traffic stop nets DUI

Denny W. Steffens, 35, of the 2600 block of Nancy Avenue, was arrested at 12:06 a.m. Aug. 23 for driving under the influence of alcohol.

An officer reported seeing a white 1981 Plymouth Reliant in the 2100 block of Illinois Avenue fail to signal when making a right turn onto West 20th Street, and again fail to signal when turning onto the 19th Street overpass.

The car was stopped on 19th Street at Delmar Avenue. Steffens, the driver, took three field sobriety tests and a breath analysis test and was charged.

He was released after posting his driver's license and $107 cash.

Van hit, man arrested

Thomas A. Swofford, 25, of the Parktowne West Mobile Home Park, was arrested at 3:11 a.m. Aug. 22 for driving under the influence of alcohol, improper lane usage, driving without liability insurance, and violating the seat belt law.

An officer responding to a traffic accident met with Swofford, who said his blue 1973 Dodge struck a van parked in the 1900 block of St. Clair Avenue, according to a police report.

Swofford took three field sobriety tests and a breath analysis test and was charged. He was lodged pending $107 cash as bail.

DUI arrest on Nameoki

John P. Fink, 26, of the 2800 block of Spring Drive, was arrested at 2:07 a.m. Aug. 22 for driving under the influence of alcohol.

An officer reported seeing a white 1985 Mercury Marquis northbound on Nameoki Road near East 24th Street, with one headlight.

The officer followed the car and watched as the vehicle straddled the center line of the road, according to a police report.

Finke, the driver, pulled over on the parking lot of Eddie's Lounge, 2900 Nameoki Road, where he took four field sobriety tests.

He also took a breath analysis test, and was charged with DUI and driving with one headlight.

He posted his driver's license and cash as bail and was released from custody.

Weapon found in auto

Deverick A. Miller, 19, of the 100 block of North Sixth Street in Brooklyn, was arrested at 1:54 a.m. Aug. 21 for unlawful use of a weapon.

An officer reported seeing a brown Oldsmobile leave the parking lot of Granite City Lodge and then turn without signaling.

The car was pulled over on Niedringhaus Avenue at Spruce Street.

A .32-caliber semi-automatic pistol was found under the front passenger seat where Miller had been sitting, according to a police report.

Miller posted $107 and was released.

Alleged burglar caught

Jason G. Baker, 17, of the 2000 block of 14th Street was arrested at 1:18 p.m. Aug. 21 for burglary.

Officers dispatched to a home in the 1400 block of Rhodes Street in regard to a burglary in progress reported finding Baker hiding under a table in the kitchen of the home.

Burglary suspect is recaptured

A man who escaped from the Madison City Jail last week was apprehended in Carbondale this week.

Rodney R. Prude, 31, of the 1700 block of Olive Street in Granite City, was arrested at 1:20 a.m. Tuesday by Southern Illinois University police in Carbondale.

University police said Prude was arrested at the Southern Illinois Hills student housing complex on the campus.

Prude is being held in the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville on bond set at $200,000 on charges of burglary and escape.

Prude had escaped from the Madison jail at about 2 a.m. last Thursday.

Chief Charles E. Bridick said, Bridick said Prude was being held for allegedly stealing a stereo system from a pickup truck owned by Eldon Hubbe, also of Granite City, while the truck was parked on a lot at Minnie's Tavern, 1415 Fifth St. in Madison, at about 2 a.m. Aug. 18.

The stereo equipment was recovered at the time of Prude's initial arrest, according to a police report.

Bridick attributed the escape to a "lapse in security." He said the matter is under investigation, and that no police personnel had been disciplined as of Wednesday afternoon.

Madison police said Prude escaped while a prisoner in the same cell was being transferred to the Granite City Jail.

•Building

He said the building has structural problems and that condemnation proceedings have been initiated. He also said he has had problems getting Dolosic to cooperate in the past.

"We spend all this time and money writing letters and going out there, and it puts us in a bind whenever the building owner totally ignores us," Jakich said. "Her husband wants (the building) torn down and she wants to repair it. We really don't know what to think."

Dolosic said the six-month delay in repairing the building was due to the fact that, although the building burned in January, she did not receive a check from her insurance company until July 9. She had a copy of the check to show the aldermen.

Dolosic said the city wants her to sign her property over to the city, but that she still has an outstanding $16,000 mortgage.

"Alderman Dan Partney said he would look into the matter for Dolosic."

"She got a notice. She's trying to comply, but the city won't let her comply," Partney said.

"I even heard that people had seen the East St. Louis police come and get me. What would the East St. Louis police be doing up here?" Echols said he is used to being the subject of rumors. "I think they may be wishful thinking on the part of some people," he said, and usually just ignores them.

"But this time a lot of senior citizens and church ladies called me and they were really concerned about my well-being," he said. "I figured I needed to set the record straight. This one got really out of hand."

Echols apologized for the late paychecks and any inconvenience they caused to the employees.

Pilot courses offered at Parks

Private pilot and instrument ground school courses will be offered on Monday evenings beginning in September by Parks College of St. Louis University.

The private pilot and instrument ground school courses will run from Sept. 14 through Dec. 14 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Costs for the courses are $125 for the private pilot and $135 for the instrument course. Fees include the cost of the exams, but textbooks are extra.

All classes will be held at Parks College, Hangar 8 at the St. Louis Downtown-Parks Airport in Cahokia. These courses are open to the public and will prepare individuals for the Federal Aviation Administration written exams.

Registration deadline is Sept. 4. For more information, contact External Programs at (618) 337-7575.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Frequently Illinois drivers are stopped in other states and cited for a moving violation. The question then arises as to whether or not a conviction on this charge will be reported back to Illinois. If it is, it becomes significant when one considers that a driver in Illinois is only allowed three moving violations within a one-year period of time.

Illinois is one of twenty-eight states which belong to the Driver License Compact, which is an agreement among these jurisdictions to report traffic offenses to the driver's home state. The purpose of this Compact is to allow the Secretary of State in any given jurisdiction to be aware of violations committed in another state when issuing or renewing a license. Thus if an Illinois resident is arrested for a moving violation in another state and is convicted on this charge, this conviction will be reported back to his home state.

All the states who are members of this Driver License Compact have agreed to give the same effect to the conduct reported by the other state as would have been done if the conduct had occurred in the home state. It should be noted that only "convictions" for traffic violations will be reported back to the home state. If the driver is merely arrested in another state but no conviction results, nothing will be reported back to the Secretary of State in Illinois.

Let's assume that an Illinois driver is on vacation in California. On one particular evening, he has too much to drink and is stopped by a California highway patrolman. He is eventually convicted on the charge of Driving Under the Influence. The California licensing authority would report this conviction to the Secretary of State in Illinois, and the driver's license would be revoked, just as if he had been convicted originally in this State.

If a person travels extensively, he may be cited frequently in other states. This becomes a problem because often it is difficult in terms of time and money to return to the jurisdiction where he was cited and contest the ticket which was issued. It is apparent that the privilege of operating a motor vehicle may be suspended on the basis of conduct occurring within the State of Illinois as well as outside this state. To drive carelessly in other states can result in the loss of one's Illinois license.

Is state broke? In same situation, person would be

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

If a revenue-to-expenditure imbalance had continued at the June 1992 rate, Illinois would have gone financially belly-up Aug. 6.

On June 30, the end of the fiscal year, Illinois had about $130 million in its "General Funds" checkbook," according to Comptroller Dawn Clark Natesh.

Since expenditures from the fund averaged $69 million a day during the month, that means the state apparently ended the year with less than a two-day cushion.

Natesh's figures also show the general fund lost an average of $5 million a day for the 22 working days of June. If losses continued at that rate, the state should have been completely broke after 26 working days — Aug. 6.

Is Illinois broke? Natesh said, a spokesman for Natesh's office, said that on Monday the state had about $138 million in its general fund. But, Dinges said, the fund has a "delayed payment" backlog of $495 million.

If that were our Mastercard or Visa, "I guess you and I would probably consider ourselves broke," Dinges said. But, he said, the state has until the end of next June to balance its books.

If that doesn't seem to make business sense, said Charles Zinberg, a certified public accountant with the firm of Zinberg and Goldenberg in Granite City. "It's only because it really doesn't make any sense."

When Natesh's office says it uses the generally accepted accounting principles, Zinberg said, he doesn't doubt it. "I'm sure all of the figures are reported correctly and where they should be according to the principles of accounting."

"But if this was a business and a CPA was looking over the books, the CPA would have to go to the operators of the business with strong questions about the viability of its continued existence."

Banks would quit loaning the business money and suppliers of goods and services would start requiring cash-only transactions, he said.

Anytime a business can look into the future and see the day — whether it's in two weeks, two months, a year or five years — when its revenues and cash reserve will not pay the bills a business owes. Zinberg said, that business's operators "must either make some drastic changes or consider closing up the business."

But governments aren't businesses, Zinberg said, and are able to continue to operate despite fiscal irresponsibility.

"In fact, they have a history of being fiscally irresponsible. When a business is fiscally irresponsible, it is put out of business. But, so far at least, no one is putting governments out of business," Zinberg said.

Dinges said June had been a "pretty unexceptional month" and its figures are a pretty good indication of where the state may be headed.

He said the year-end figures for 1992 should tell state officials "we have run out of one-shot, quick-fix solutions" because, despite rate increases in 1992, actual tax revenues from both liquor and cigarette taxes decreased from fiscal year 1991.

Delaying payments from one fiscal year to another may "make the books look good," Dinges said, but "those bills are still owed and the revenue is going to have to come from somewhere."

He said that even Gov. Jim Edgar's "optimistic" revenue projections will not completely cover the delayed debt and "our somewhat more pessimistic figures don't even come close."

Slowing up payments is a trick some individuals try, Zinberg said, "but pretty soon individuals find people stop doing things for them. They stop providing water or electricity or credit."

"But that hasn't happened to government. At least, not so far."

Zinberg said that, despite common sense indicating otherwise, "there's a whole group of economists out there who tell you there is nothing wrong with operating this way" and that "a whole lot of politicians are willing to believe them."

Dinges agreed that "one of the saddest things is that the state can borrow money at next to nothing."

He said the state just got a major loan at less than 3 percent and "it's hard, if not impossible, to pass something like that up."

Borrowing may help meet day-to-day obligations, Dinges said, "but it only delays the day when you have to come up with your own money. That day is still going to come."

Building architects deny responsibility for problems

The architects of the new Madison County Administration Building say they are not to blame for accessibility problems in the 2-month-old facility.

Leo A. Daly & Associates, the architectural firm which designed the $17 million building, submitted a three-page report Monday to the County Board Buildings Committee absolving the firm of any responsibility for shortcomings in handicapped-accessibility accommodations in the new building.

Officials at IMPACT Inc. earlier this month charged the architects with failing to live up to the Illinois Environmental Barriers Act and other state codes when the building was designed three years ago.

Representatives of the firm and Buildings Committee Chairman Herbert "Junior" Milton, however, maintained that all state and federal codes were met.

IMPACT officials had not seen the daily report Monday afternoon and declined to comment.

IMPACT is an Alton-based advocacy group for the disabled. The alleged code violations reported by IMPACT program director Cathy Contorno included: bathrooms too small for easy maneuverability of wheelchairs; elevator doors that do not stay open long enough to get a wheelchair inside; a shortage of wheelchair seating in the County Board room; and a failure to insulate pipes in the bathrooms to prevent scalding.

Committee members indicated they have no plans to contest the conclusions reached in the Daly report. The firm will probably not be asked to pay for the renovations, officials said.

Meanwhile, county officials would cost thousands of dollars are scaling back their estimates.

"When I first saw that report, I thought, 'Oh man, this is going to cost us and cost us big,'" said County Board member Tony Bosich.

"But after I looked it over more carefully, it started to look like the problem maybe wasn't going to give us that much trouble," the Wood River Democrat said.

Monday and Milton maintained from the beginning that the renovations in the Administration Building would cost little and blasted County Board members, such as Bosich, who said otherwise.

Bosich and other committee members have since revised their estimates and said it appeared Monday and Milton had been correct all along.

"I can unequivocally say this is not going to mean a high cost in terms of paying for whatever modifications may be needed," Monday said this week.

Bosich guessed the work could be done for a few hundred dollars.

In addition to the Administration Building, nine other county offices are in need of renovations to live up to new federal accessibility regulations.

SIUE stadium gets $100,000 gift

Backers of a track stadium at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are in the home stretch in the race to raise enough funds to build a $3.8 million facility.

An Illinois-based communications company, donated $100,000 Tuesday, the largest donation to date — leaving organizers with another $500,000 to raise in the next six months.

"Consolidated is committed to the Southwestern Illinois community, and we're very excited about this opportunity to help fund the new track and field and soccer facility for SIUE," Robert Currey, president of Consolidated Communications Inc., said.

Furthermore, Currey said, the company has promised to donate more money under a program in which business owners will be encouraged to switch their long distance service to Consolidated Communications.

Under the program, the company will make a donation based on a percentage of each business' monthly calling volume. The more long distance calls made, the more money the company will donate each month.

Similar programs are in effect with community development organizations in Alton, Decatur and McLean County, company officials said.

Construction of the stadium could start sometime after October and must be completed by May 1, 1994.

Korte Construction Co. has contributed $100,000, while other business contributions include a pace-setting $50,000 donation from The Bank of Edwardsville, Illinois Power and the Alton Foundation. Mississippi Lime Co. has donated all the rock needed to build the facility.

The biggest boost for stadium backers came when state legislators approved $3.3 million in bonds for the project. If the state had not supported the effort, the 1994 Olympic Festival track and soccer events would have been held at Washington University in St. Louis.

"The biggest thing of this project was getting the state funding. We've hit a home run on this project," Ed Hunkeler, the SIUE soccer coach, said at a luncheon meeting Monday to announce the state funding.

Denny Bond, head of the Olympic Festival Organizing Committee in St. Louis, said he expects 4,000 athletes to participate. More than 2,000 media members are expected to cover the event.

Harry Lang, SIUE track and cross country coach, said that track is a sport in which 30 or more major universities would come in for a big weekend meet. The new facility could make that possible. "This new stadium will make us a class act," he said.

Vadalabene hospitalized again; he has pneumonia

Veteran state Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, has been hospitalized for pneumonia.

Vadalabene, 78, was admitted last Thursday to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Granite City with a fever, administrative assistant Pat Hill said.

Hill said Vadalabene no longer has a fever but still has a cough from the pneumonia. She said he was transferred Tuesday to a larger private room so he could accept flowers and cards from well-wishers.

Vadalabene, who under redistricting now represents the Collinsville area, spent about two weeks in July in St. Anthony's Hospital in Alton to have fluid drained from his lungs.

He returned to his legislative duties last month by attending a Legislative Audit Commission meeting.

A surprise birthday party was held for him in his Statehouse office on July 31.

Vadalabene has been in the Senate since 1971 after serving in the Illinois House from 1967 to 1970.

Little tax things mean a lot

Among the many opinions voters will be asked to give in November is whether the legislature should consider the cost to local governments when it establishes state mandates. Everyone knows the answer — of course it should. We would hope that the legislators carefully consider all of the costs and ramifications to anyone and everyone, not only local governments, before they vote to enact any law.

Unfortunately, given the sheer number of laws the legislature is asked to consider each session, we suspect that many are passed by legislators who use the process of elimination consideration: "I don't think it matters," "I don't think it," "I don't think it," "I don't."

This is a non-binding referendum — little more than a straw poll — and even if approved unanimously it only means voters may get a chance in a future election to vote on some sort of constitutional amendment that would require the state to think about providing funding for its mandates. In other words, it is easy to believe this is just one more case of a meaningless Mickey Mouse double-talk gobbledygook something or other being placed at the end of an already too-long ballot where the mentally fatigued voters will either ignore it or punch it at random.

That said, we think this is an important issue and urge voters to take a stand, both in November and beyond.

Each session, the well-meaning legislature sets new, lofty goals and requirements designed to better the quality of life in Illinois. From job safety to geography skills to recycling to energy conservation, and in areas ranging from buildings to swimming pools, the legislature doesle Illinois and its institutions must meet the very highest standards. Then it passes those lofty ideals down to the local schools, communities, libraries, park districts and other taxing bodies, saying "This is very important, so cost is no object. Just do it."

Of course, to a small taxing body, dependent on property taxes for most of its revenue, cost is always an object. And when property taxes go up — even by just a penny or two — to pay for replacement of a public restroom considered "just fine" by everyone except a state inspector enforcing some obscure regulation, the voters are really going to squeal.

The problem, as Mayors Von Dee Cruse and John Bellico noted recently, is that by then it is really too late to squeal. To be effective, the squealing should have come when the law was being considered in the first place.

That's what gives this otherwise meaningless referendum its meaning. Whatever constitutional amendment would result from passage of this referendum — even if it is something as inconsequential as requiring unfunded state mandates to pass by more than a simple majority — it will call attention to these mandates.

It would mean that, at the very least, an asterisk would have to be put on these laws for record-keeping purposes. That in itself would be enough to make some legislators give it at least a second glance. We think this should be taken a step further. If a law contains an unfunded mandate, it should carry a warning label.

If every such bill had printed across the top, in two-inch-high red letters, "Warning, passage of this law will result in increased local property taxes," how many of these laws would pass? Not very many.

And if a law passes despite the warning label, we can be assured that the law will have been debated and that the majority of the legislators honestly believe it is in the best interests of the people.

Warning labels don't keep people from smoking cigarettes and, for some legislators at least, spending other people's money appears to be an even stronger addiction, than tobacco. Still, even if a warning label doesn't work all the time, it can hardly be considered worthless.

It's time to put warning labels on laws. This November, voters should vote overwhelmingly to halt "increasing property taxes due to unfunded mandates on local government."

'From bar to car to gates ajar'

Carol Clarkin writes a weekly Edwardsville Journal column.

I've just finished (in a little over an hour) a slim volume, "The Verse by the Side of the Road" by Frank Rowson Jr. Not hard to guess what that's about, if you're part of my generation.

The book provides background on the Odell family in Minnesota who pioneered not only the brushless shaving cream but also the advertising venture for the product. The advertising became an integral part of mid-America's highways and byways and kept us all amused for several generations — from 1927 into 1963.

The texts of all 600 of these roadside jingles are included. I can't remember a family vacation or long trip of my childhood on which my brother and I didn't savor them.

No one, in those dear, dead days beyond recall, had invented "car games" to keep the young 'uns quiet. A Hundred Bottles of Beer on the Wall" was as yet uncomposed.

We searched for Burma-Shave signs, counted Red Man tobacco ads painted on barn roofs, and "stamped" white horses in sibling rivalry. Those jingles kept the winning of "When are we gonna get there?" to a minimum and saved adult sanity on many a family trek.

Great poetry they weren't. The Odells weren't into sonnets.

The little verses were the kind of thing they had to be humorous, they had to have something of a down-home quality, and they had to "grab" you from the first line of the staggered signs.

One of the Odells' personal favorites was "This Vale/Of Toil/And Sin/Your Head Crosses Bald/But Not Your Chin."

One that the book's author considered appalling, but which I like: "Pedro Walked/Back Home/By Golly/His Brisky Chin/Was Hot to Molly. And/She Kissed/The Hairbrush/By Mistake/She Thought It Was/Her Husband's Hair."

Highway safety was a concern of the Odell family and a number of the jingles were cautionary in nature.

The shortest one on record, for example, consisted of a succinct seven-word message: "From/Bar/To Car/To/Gates Ajar. Or: At School Zoned/Heed Instructions/Protect/Our Little/Tax Deductions."

And I loved this one: "He Saw/The Train/And Tried to Duck It/Kicked First the Gas/And Then the Bucket."

Or: "We Know/How Much/You Love That Gal/But Use Both Hands/For Driving. Pal."

Burma Shave, as a product, began on a shoestring and its advertising did, too.

The idea for the carefully spaced signs along a roadway was inspired by the fact that a small gas station and were originally placed along only two highways — from Minneapolis to Albert Lea and from Minneapolis to Red Wing.

Family members themselves went out and dug the holes and tamped the posts into place. Advertising men said they wouldn't work. So much for ad men.

I don't know about you, but I'm up to here with being told to run for the border or head to the mountains of Russia.

I'm sick of cuddly babies in drippy diapers, June Allyson saving us from the embarrassment of incontinence, and Ray Charles calling me "Babyface."

Give me again that first line of a roadside jingle that whets the curiosity. Burma Shave, forever!

Adopt universal health-care plan

TO THE EDITOR: Imagine an ad, "Help wanted. Earn over $100,000 annually. Five weeks vacation. Apply now." Any employer offering that kind of deal would be flooded with applications. According to the American Medical Association, that's the average doctor's salary and vacation.

But faced with the introduction of a universal, single-payer health-care plan in the spring General Assembly, the high-powered lobbyists for the Illinois State Medical Society would like you to believe that the physicians are getting a raw deal.

Health-care costs are out of control. Medical costs have outstripped inflation for years and are approaching 14 percent of our gross national product.

Most Illinois residents can no longer afford health care and 1.8 million are uninsured.

No under 200,000 organizations and thousands of individuals have joined the Campaign for Better Health Care to demand that lawmakers pass a single-payer plan for Illinois.

What are the ISMS and the AMA doing about the health-care crisis? They are once again blaming you and me for the skyrocketing costs.

Worse yet, the ISMS's lobbyists are demanding that legislators limit the amount of money awarded to patients injured through medical negligence. They reason that health costs will fall if the victims of medical malpractice can't collect from negligent doctors.

ISMS plan to punish the patients who suffer the most, with brain damage, serious injury or even death at the hands of incompetent doctors. As crazy as that sounds, Indiana adopted such a system in 1975.

An arbitrary limit to jury awards was set to save doctors and insurance companies money on malpractice litigation. But, has this helped control Indiana's health costs? Not at all.

In fact, a February 1992 study shows Indiana hospitals charge the same or more than Illinois hospitals, which have no limits on the amount of money negligent doctors are protected, while Indiana residents are forced to give up their rights.

Isn't it enough that they advocate to clean their own house and deceitfully incompetent doctors? This is just one info that would actually help lower medical costs throughout Illinois.

There are conflicts of interest that need to be eliminated. Doctors who have a financial self-interest in labs and clinics should not be eliminating this practice.

A Florida study recently found that patients whose doctors refer them to facilities where the doctor has an investment are charged up to 38 percent more than patients whose doctors have no conflict of interest.

A recently passed law in Illinois to deal with this conflict unfortunately doesn't go into effect until 1996 and barely begins to deal with this scam.

ISMS doctors should take the advice of the federal government and stop accepting gifts, trips and other perks offered them by pharmaceutical companies. A report released by the Department of Health and Human Services shows doctors who accept these items write up to 80 percent more prescriptions.

The ISMS should help the FBI in its fight against medical fraud, which accounts for an estimated 10 percent of our nation's yearly health bill. Fraud, including illegal billing practices, costs you and me an estimated $82 billion a year.

Like the "want ad" suggested, most American doctors have it pretty good. One-sixth of them are getting a quarter of a million dollars a year, while one-sixth of our population is uninsured or denied care because they are on Medicaid.

The good news is there are thousands of responsible doctors across Illinois and this country who are becoming members of Physicians for a National Health Plan. They agree with the vast majority of us who favor a single-payer health-care system and oppose the above mentioned financial scams.

If the ISMS and its high-powered lobbyists truly want to join in and help solve the health-care crisis in our state, they will first have to stop blaming you, the patient, and begin healing themselves from their conflict of interest. And they should join with the majority of Illinois residents and support universal health care.

The ultimate decision will be made by our elected officials. In this crucial upcoming election, it is important for all of us to let politicians know.

They need to know that your family's health care is more important than the political health of politicians who would become political action committee money from ISMS and the insurance industry, than take political advice from you, the voter.

Charity arrests offend citizen

TO THE EDITOR: I wish to start by saying that I am a human being who supports the American Cancer Society's efforts to fight cancer in this country.

I find offensive is the Society's and Granite City government's tactic of coercing citizens to donate money to the hard-earned money through the program, Jail and Bail.

Under this program, someone can call and have another person "arrested" by a local police officer and taken to a location set up as a mock "jail."

Then, the prisoners are required to call on friends, family, and business associates to donate money to the ACS. The bail is set by the "judge," usually $300 or more, or to spend one hour trying to collect the money.

I find this offensive in that people are taken from their jobs, homes, or other various places, and they should not feel they are required to participate in this sort of practice by our local government and local citizens.

Isn't it enough that they stop traffic on Madison Avenue for donations? Why can't city officials and police officers donate their time and energy to help local teens avoid alcohol, drugs, and other troubles by getting them involved with sports or other activities?

Or help senior citizens and other immobile people get to doctors, hospitals or stores.

Or help them with home maintenance, such as cutting the grass or painting.

These are the people that have paid their taxes in this city and I think we as a people should take care of our own first.

Yes, cancer is a problem but so are heart disease, diabetes, AIDS, and 1,000 other illnesses. What about accident victims and victims of abuse or crimes?

Are we going to set up a program such as Jail and Bail for everything that threatens us as human beings?

Country theme for Mitchell fair

TO THE EDITOR: "It was like a country picnic. That's how the annual Mitchell Fall Festival began. It started in 1959 and consisted of three 'kiddie' rides, chicken dinners (ordered in advance), a dunking booth and two or three games."

This is from a newspaper account, quoting the late Harry Breckner, who was the leading coordinator and charter member of the Mitchell Athletic Club.

The article goes on: "It was on a Saturday afternoon. Mostly local Mitchell residents attended. It was like a gathering."

But it later developed into a flashier, bigger festival.

Name bands came and there were bright, rainbow-colored lights, loud music, joyful screams, carnival rides, the smell of popcorn, fish and beer.

Finally, the beer garden became too successful and arguments and fights between young men broke out.

This year, Sept. 11-13, it will have more of the country picnic appeal.

It will have something for everybody: carnival rides, bluegrass music, a mechanical bull, pig races, a flea market, food booths.

Senior citizens will have a part in the program with their pies, cakes and homemade canned goods stand. Quilt tickets will be sold. There will be a cake walk.

The cakes, pies and homemade goods will be for sale. Bakery goods will be sold by slices or the entire pie or cake.

There will be musicians for the cake walk.

The seniors have always taken part in the fair and look forward to participating with their return to a country-style fair.

Favors larger, new swim pool

TO THE EDITOR: When the swimming pool was built about 1929 in Wilson Park, we Mississippi River alumni swimmers called it a shoebox. I cannot understand the Park Board thinking about (rehabilitating or duplicating) it.

They should look around neighboring towns for an idea. Take Highland, for example. They have only 17,500 people and their L-shaped pool had a swimming meet there this summer of 500 entries.

Is this progress for Granite City? Build another shoebox? The hole is there so enlarge it. Make the city proud.

Parade challenge

TO THE EDITOR: To all members of Local 16 of the United Steelworkers of America, our local will be a part of the Granite City Labor Day parade. Please come to Edison Avenue between Nedinghaus Avenue and 10th Street beginning at 8 a.m. for the 10 a.m. start.

Our local has challenged all other locals to try to have more people there than Local 16.

So, Local 16 members and families, let's show Granite City who we are. Let's show management how strong we are and will continue to be.

Local 16 will have a Labor Day picnic at the National Steel Recreational Park right after the parade.

Columnist is honored on 83rd birthday

Lucille Martin

Lucille Martin covers the Ponton Beach scene for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 831-0213.

Yours Truly was honored guest at a surprise party Monday evening in honor of her 83rd birthday. Party refreshments were served to Robyn Campbell and children, Christine, London, Brian and Scott Watson of Troy; Tom and Kathy Green Sr.; Maxine Green, Kathy Green and daughters, Kerl and Courtney, and Leona Williams.

Others helping her celebrate during the day were Marilee Verdu, and daughter Jane Bartlesman and daughter Kristie of Belleville; brother Carl Tucker and Frances Bergman of St. Louis and Kay Andersen of Ponton.

The Ponton Beach Senior Citizens held their August meeting on the 18th in the Senior Hall. Attendance prizes were won by Dora Serenie, Bill Van Sycoc, and James Graham. Entertainment was presented by the Silver Slings.

A White Elephant sale will be held on Sept. 26 at the pot luck dinner starting at 5 p.m. A barbecue is planned for Saturday, Oct. 10.

Attending the August meeting were Bob and Ginny Alford, Earl and Rose Edmiston, Otto and Corrine Kreher, Robbie Wilson, Mary Merz, Vera Bolton, Mary Hasselbrock, Ed and Glorine Van Sycoc, Karmon Edmonds, Joseph Pickett, Lee and Betty Ridgeway, Stanley and Loretta Golab, Earl and Shirley White, Mildred and Herman Bob and the Lipscomb, Irene Karlechik, Mabel Kennerly, Edna Webster, Ralph and Juanita Craycraft, George and Gladys Johnson, Rowland, Jim Graham, William R. and Ruth Dagon Dra Serenie, and Ruth Jensen.

Rev. and Mrs. Ed (Lyn) have returned from a two-week vacation in a townhouse, Minn., where one of the highlights was visiting the Loon (3). They also visited their daughter, Roby Hart in Minneapolis, and attended the state show "The Kathy and Mo Show," in which she was one of the performers.

Correction:
Mr. and Mrs. Scott (Susan) Jones of Breckenridge Lane who announced the arrival of a daughter, on Sunday, Aug. 16, has a sister, Heather. ## Respite care for care givers

For care givers, it is not always easy to find friendly, secure care for loved ones when the care giver needs relief or to go on vacation.

The Respite Guest Unit, located on 3-Binney at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, provides temporary care for dependent but medically stable individuals.

"More and more families are choosing to care for their loved ones in the home," said Sandy Hillmer, director of Extended Care Rehabilitation Services, 798-3020.

"Sometimes, situations require the family to find an alternate care giver for a weekend. That's when we can help. Guests can stay overnight, or for as long as two weeks."

The unit has a semi-private room decorated in pastel colors. It has a private bath, telephone and television.

Each guest is provided meal service, including any special diet needs he may have, house keeping and room linen service, and recreational activities.

"Our certified therapeutic recreation specialist plans activities for guests on a one-on-one basis and as a group," Hillmer said.

"She plans movies, music, piano, and sing-alongs, games, videos and slide shows. These are particularly relaxing for guests."

Reservations for the respite guest room are required two weeks in advance. A Respite Guest Questionnaire must be filled out by a family member as part of the reservation process.

Shop gives youngsters taste of 'real world'

Thrift store counts on children as volunteers

By Amber Rogers
Correspondent

The homemade sign reads "The Downstairs Treasure Shoppe" and the golden, oak door behind the sign swings wide to reveal a steep but short stairway.

Steps echo and creak loudly on the way down into the bright basement, where groups of children, several senior citizens and one busy woman from Catholic Charities work to run a thrift shop.

"We take donated clothes and various items and run this basement just like an ordinary thrift shop, with low prices. Our only difference is that these kids are the ones who work in the shop," said Diane Toller.

For two years, she has been manager of the Catholic Charities Downstairs Treasure Shoppe, located in the basement of the Catholic Charities building at 216 St. St. Granite City.

Though the shop has been operating for two and a half years, using some student help, this is the first year that Toller has had so many young volunteers.

Currently, Toller counts 38 children who donate several hours on Tuesdays through Saturdays to work in the thrift shop, which is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The children do not work on Mondays, which is Toller's day off.

In the pale-painted, low-ceilinged basement, there are racks and rows of donated clothes of all shapes and sizes. The clothing is organized carefully by the children, under Toller's supervision.

Along the walls, there are bookshelves for sale, lamps, shoes and other items that eventually will end up on thrift-shop shelves.

"We couldn't run this place without the kids," Toller said.

"Not only do they work with these items, but they also pack coats and items like toothpaste and toilet paper for our Bare Necessities program."

"Bare Necessities is a program that senior citizens can use to get the necessary items that their fixed incomes won't cover."

"The kids do the majority of the packing for that," she said, smiling at two youngsters who stand nearby. One was light-haired, very young and very shy. The other, a dark-haired 13-year-old, was eager to talk.

"I've learned to do work, keep at it, and get it done. I've learned to cooperate better with the other kids and with the leaders and people in charge," said Alfred Fischer. He is one of a number of young workers who have been participating for more than a year.

While the workers learn to cooperate and to obey their elders, Toller said they also learn important skills, such as running a cash register, marking items, selling goods and dealing with customers.

"The kids work in shifts. Some work from 10 a.m. to noon, while others work the shift from noon until 2 p.m."

"Each group has a team leader. We currently have three team leaders who are here every day. The team leaders are actually the ones who operate the cash register," Toller said.

The workers will only be working on Saturdays, Toller said, when the fall school term begins.

Toller decided to let the young volunteers work for one bag of items per shift, rather than work for free.

At the end of their two-hour shift, they are given a snack and are allowed to "stuff a bag" with articles they choose from off the floor.

"If the item is really special, then they have to work a little extra. If they don't really work, then they don't get paid," Toller said, by doing this, how the real world works in a job situation," Toller said.

There are no listed qualifications that are necessary to become a student volunteer. Toller said the children need only to be able to follow directions and be reasonably well-behaved.

The age range is open as well, although Toller believes that, once the children reach 16, it is hard for them to work a regular job and volunteer so many hours.

At present, the group ranges in age from six to 16, the oldest being team leader Jennifer Griffith.

"I like working here because we help the needy people who have no clothes, and we help people in disasters," she said.

"I've been here two years, and I think that, if kids will put in this special time, they'll keep away from drugs and alcohol. And maybe they won't get into so much trouble," Jennifer Griffith said.

Her 13-year-old sister, Jessica Griffith, agreed.

Jessica said that, as a new team leader, she also likes to help people and help the other children learn to be responsible for their work and actions.

The third team leader is Lucy Obermeier.

Diane Toller, standing, directs her helpers as to what is to be kept and what is to be thrown away from donated clothing.

"The skills I am learning — like running the cash-register, learning to solve problems, talking to the public and being nice and kind to everybody — will help later on when I get older," Jessica Griffith said.

While Toller and her crew of workers stay busy, there are three senior workers and one senior volunteer who work behind the scenes in the busy shop.

"I think this program is just beautiful," said Belleville Area College Senior Aide Corinne Silas.

"This kind of work teaches the children how to get along," Silas said while she unpacked clothes.

One of the several duties the seniors have. Other duties include hanging and dating clothes, and completing general shop duties.

Silas, Edna Jones and James Vasdan are three workers who come from the BAC Senior Aides program.

According to a spokeswoman for Senior Aides, the program is a federally funded employment program that employs seniors 55 and older for 20 hours each week at minimum wage. It is funded by the National Council of Senior Citizens through the Department of Labor.

Seniors are sent by BAC to agencies requesting help throughout several counties, with 40 senior citizens employed in Madison County.

Virginia Trebing, the fourth senior at the Treasure Shoppe, is a volunteer from the BAC Retired Senior Volunteer Program, RSVP.

The RSVP program, according to past director Jerry Casson, is a federally-funded program in which the government pays BAC to find volunteers for non-profit organizations requesting help.

"We try to place people who are compatible with that type of atmosphere."

"For example, those who are placed in the thrift shop had to be in better health than others because of it being a fast-paced business that requires lifting, carrying and working with young, active children," Casson said.

Trebing from RSVP and her co-workers from the Senior Aide program feel that Toller's work with the children has been excellent, giving the youngsters the learning atmosphere needed to better function in the business world.

Parent participation is also a plus with such a program, and Toller hopes to increase this in the future as the program progresses and becomes better known.

Marie Odom, mother of worker Jenny Odom, comments Toller for the program's success.

"The kids learn to work together and Diane helps to raise their self-esteem. She praises them when they deserve it and she works well with them," Mrs. Odom said.

"She listens to their problems."

She has patience with kids, and is compassionate and kind. She is there for them."

"She is someone who really cares about the kids."

One of the younger workers is Esther Callison, a seven-year-old who thinks Toller is a "neat lady who makes it fun to work here."

Parents interested in involving their children with the thrift shop can call Toller through Catholic Charities.

"Just come and see me," she said. "If we can take the child, all they do is sign a release form and we agree on a shift and get them working."

"This program is growing, and I hope it continues to do so. The kids love it."

"I think that, above all, this program gives them a sense of responsibility that they need to lead better lives," Toller said.

Student workers include: Sheryl Fischer, Raymond Fischer, Alfred Fischer, Lynn Fischer, Jennifer Griffith, Jessica Griffith, Jenny Odom, Tony Koehler, Nicole Gallia, Cassie Hagopian, Will Cook, Brandon Maple, Cicero Maple, Craig Maple, Jamie Edwards, Angela Perdue, Jenny Edwards, Lucy Obermeier, Nola Obermeier, Larry Obermeier, Hope Kurtz, Jay Sanford, Jade Sanford, Jeff Sanford, Jason Sanford, Sarah Jarrett, Lakeisha Hill, Daniel Solomon, Daniel Waslager, Kenneth McFarland, Darren Million, Mark Agers, Christ Zigler and Esther Callison.

YOUTH FOCUS: What's the best thing about being you?

(Asked of students at Venice Grade School, Harris School and Maryville School.)

Jabirico Paulette, Venice Grade School

"The best thing about being me is I'm good at math and drawing. I can divide as fast as the smartest kid in the class. I can draw the Empire State Building in one minute and ten seconds — windows, doors, and antennas included."

Darrell Jackson, Venice Grade School

"The best thing about being me is that I believe in God and when I die I want to go to heaven. That's the best thing about being me."

Angela Jones, Venice Grade School

"The best thing about being me is I can jump double Dutch rope just like any other girl."

Aishah Johnson, Venice Grade School

"The best thing about being me is that I'm smart, nice, and I like to help people who need food, clothing and shelter. I love school and I want to have a good education."

Kenyota Johnson, Harris School

"The best thing about me is the special love and kindness I get. I know that my family loves me. It may take awhile to get new stuff just because of the bills. After the bills are paid I get new stuff then. That's what is special about me."

Josh Peacher, Maryville School

"I can think what I want without anybody knowing what I'm thinking."

Jabirico Paulette, Venice Grade School

"The best thing about being me is I'm smart. I know there is not anyone exactly like me. The best thing about being me is that I'm smart, nice, funny, and intelligent."

The Madison County Baptist Association Saints Alive Senior Choir presented the cantata, "Learning to Live Again," during the Thursday evening service in the Pontoon Baptist Church.

There were six short comical scenes by members of the group with short enthusiastic songs between each scene and several solos and testimonies were given. Lori Castelson directed the program and her husband, Wayne, arranged the stage setting.

Seniors participating were Vera Kirkpatrick, Myra Grote, Virgie and Olive Stogsdale, Gertrude Sullivan, Louise Acocks, Kathy Sargent, Vera Ridgeway, Arleen Smith, Bob Lewis, Glen Knight, Jim Ridgeway and Gene Hargraves. Their next presentation will be on Sept. 13 in the Pleasant Ridge Church in Collinsville.

Ambassadors to honor Nestle Sept. 19

Ed Mullins, president of the Granite City Ambassadors, has announced that Nestle Beverage Company will be honored at the Ambassadors' 1992 gala to be held Saturday, Sept. 19, in the Meridian Ballroom of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The goal of the Granite City Ambassadors is to raise the sense of pride within our community, Mullins said.

"We do this by recognizing our outstanding students and our senior citizens at various times of the year, and by recognizing one of our major corporations at our annual gala."

Since Nestle Beverage Company is the Granite City-based operation of a Swiss parent company, Nestle S.A., this year's gala theme will be Swiss.

The finale of the evening will feature the presentation of an expense-paid, six-day trip to Switzerland for two to one of the lucky persons in attendance.

The Goshen Lounge, where cocktails will be served beginning at 6 p.m., will be transformed into a quintessential Alpine Swiss village, with entertainment and memorabilia from Switzerland.

"For dinner, which will consist of a five-course filet mignon dinner highlighted with wine, the Meridian Ballroom will be decorated with the very elegant beauty of the Tyrolean Alps."

Dancing in the Ballroom, until midnight will follow the Ambassadors' ceremony recognizing the Nestle Co.

As the guests arrive, each will be presented with a numbered ski-lift pass. Prior to dinner, 64 numbers will be selected.

The guests with those numbered passes will remain in competition for Switzerland trip. As the evening progresses, that number will be reduced to 32, then 16, eight, four, two and an eventual winner.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by the Hugh "Peanuts" Whalum Sextet.

The gala is open to the public. "Tickets cost $40 each, with tables for eight costing $320," said Rosemarie Brown, event coordinator. "Tickets must be purchased in advance; there will be no sales at the door."

"Our Sales and Promotion Committee, comprised of local business leaders, has already sold in excess of 400 tickets and tables and single tickets available. Anyone interested in attending the gala can call me at 877-0221."

Pontoon

In other action, McDonald's of Pontoon Beach requested permission to expand its parking lot on Engineer Road to include truck parking.

According to McDonald's request, however, it will not be a full-fledged truck stop.

The board voted to refer the request to Sweet for a legal opinion.

A permit allowing radio station WGNU on Old Alton Road to expand its building was approved by the board and will now be sent to the village's zoning committee for final approval.

The board went into an executive session Tuesday to discuss land acquisition.

Today, the board will meet at 7 p.m. to discuss building renovation for the Village Hall and financing for a project.

Marvin Ribbing said the board is examining the idea of building jail cells in the Village Hall basement. Other expansion plans are also being studied, he said.

Helen Barbeau

Helen Stockton (Oliver) Barbeau, 72, of Madison died at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 26, 1992, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City. She had been ill for several months following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Barbeau was born Oct. 8, 1919, in Kennett, Mo. She was a nurse's aide for 20 years at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and retired in 1977.

Survivors include one daughter, Erma Bishop of Edwardsville; two sons, Larry Stockton of Madison and Jim Stockton of Granite City; one brother, Billy Oliver of Houston; one sister, Omie Blank of Mobile, Ala.; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, John and Maggie (Monahan) Oliver; a son, Ricky Joe Stockton; and three sisters, Bobbie Richcke, Vickie Rains and Dot Dunn.

Visitation will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. today at Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, Granite City, where services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Friday. Burial will follow at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville.

Memorials are suggested to Hospice of Madison County.

Farmers lobby for ethanol

Farmers used a campaign appearance to plant a kernel with President George Bush that they hope will grow into a market for corn-based ethanol fuels.

Farm leaders and Gov. Jim Edgar lobbied Bush on regulations on proposed federal environmental rules that threaten to eliminate ethanol fuel use in nine major metropolitan markets, which would hurt the state's farm and ethanol industries.

Bush whipped up an estimated 5,000 banner-waving Republicans packed in the Coliseum at the Illinois State Fair in a 10-minute campaign speech.

Bush did not mention ethanol in the speech, which was full of attacks on Democrats in Congress and other themes the president had emphasized in his address to the Republican National Convention in Houston last Thursday night.

Edgar and Illinois Farm Bureau President John White, upset with last week's announcement by the federal Environmental Protection Agency that ethanol would likely be banned under Clean Air Act regulations, telephoned Bush before his arrival in Springfield and the president agreed to meet with farm leaders, Edgar and others.

White said Bush made no commitment to reverse the U.S. EPA's proposed regulation but pledged to give the issue his personal attention.

Trivia

John J. Mitchell laid out the Alton and St. Louis Railroad in 1864 and a railroad station in the area now known as Mitchell was named after him.

Illinois 3 stoplight added at Hartford

Motorists have one more stop along Illinois Highway 3 beginning this week.

The Illinois Department of Transportation flipped the switch at 10 a.m. Monday on newly installed traffic signals at Highway 3 and Plaza Lane in the Hartford area.

It's going to slow down traffic on Route 3 but will make the intersection much safer, especially for the trucks pulling out, said Conoco Pipeline Inc. spokesman Jeff Hodge. There are a lot of accidents there.

Conoco trucks use Plaza Lane to get to the pipeline on Delmar Avenue in Hartford, and about 20 Plaza Motor Fuels tankers use the intersection.

Six accidents have occurred at the intersection this year, according to Hartford police reports.

A spokeswoman for IDOT's traffic safety division said five traffic crashes occurred in 1991, 1990 and five in 1989.

"We're very pleased they're installing the lights," Plaza Motor Fuel President, Bill Schrimpf said.

"It will be a great addition and will alleviate the traffic problem. There is so much congestion when the first person in line wants to turn left."

Spokesmen showed the intersection needed signals, which will improve the flow on Highway 3 and side streets, said Ken Waggoner, IDOT electric traffic control supervisor.

Part of the project is to close the old State Route 3, which parallels the newer Route 3 near the Cahokia Diversion, Channel bridge, so a lot of that traffic will be using Plaza Lane," he said.

"It will be a much safer intersection and another access point to Hartford."

The Plaza Pantry at the intersection looks for a double bonus with the lights. "It'll help business especially along the turn lanes," said Roger Renault, assistant manager of Plaza Pantry, adding the lights will help prevent motorists from pumping gasoline and leaving without paying.

Hartford Mayor Greg Moore said the village had been awaiting the green light for a signalized intersection.

"We've been wanting signals there for many years. We're hoping it will take some of the truck traffic out of town and make it a safer intersection," he said.

If the village expands, it will be to the south, and the signals will be a key for motorists' access to Hwy. 3, Moore said.

"That area is prime for development. We've had two new trucking companies built down there, and they're happy they won't have to go through town," he said.

The Killian Corp. of Mascoutah is the general contractor for the Hwy. 3 improvement project, and Wegman Electric of East Alton installed the traffic signals.

Knight

He said a hiring freeze adopted by the City Council "has strangled us."

One source said the union will send a letter expressing its loss of confidence in Knight to Mayor Von Dee Cruse and each member of the City Council.

A similar vote was taken in 1987 regarding then-Police Chief Bill Harris. Harris later resigned.

In response to officers' growing concern over the mayor's firing of Knight on Wednesday morning announced he will move two division captains to patrol duty.

Capt. Dave Ruebhausen from the Service Division was placed on duty, while Capt. Kip Pomeroy from the Patrol Division was placed on the evening shift.

Their new duties involve first-line supervisory duties at the shift-commander desk, rather than performing office duties not directly related to a particular shift.

"I am trying to upgrade this police department and trying to find more men to answer calls."

•Mon-Clair

Hendrickson walked three and uncorked a couple of wild pitches, which isn't like him at all. He allowed six hits and struck out five. The Silver Bullets, who had scored 24 runs in the first two playoff games, took a 1-0 lead in the second on shortstop Dean Schulmeister's two-out single to score Brian Kasting.

But in the third, Hendrickson got it going with the first of his three straight hits.

"I don't have any form, I don't have a batting stance and I don't know what I'm doing up there," said Hendrickson, a terrific hitter despite his claims of ignorance. "I just hit it where they're not."

Jeff Stephens' grounder was then batted by Schulmeister and Hendrickson went to third. Stephens took off on the next pitch and no one covered second as catcher Dick Lyons' throw went into center field. Hendrickson scored and Stephens was at third. Schulmeister kicked Jamie Hogan's grounder as Stephens scored. John Moad tripled Stephens, home and DePew singled Moad in to tie it 4-1.

"Every time we made a mistake they'd get the key hit and come after us," said East Alton manager Jim Blackledge. "They're hard to handle. We've got to do better than that."

Schulmeister got another RBI hit in the fourth after two walks. But Hendrickson got it right back as he singled and scored on Tim Hogan's hit in the bottom of the fourth. Hendrickson then led off the sixth with another hit. Tim and Jamie Hogan followed with hits for one run, and DePew added a sacrifice fly to make it 7-2.

The Eagles turned two double plays and have made only one error in the playoffs.

"We're averaging about eight runs a game and the guys are making all the plays defensively," said Hendrickson. "We deserve this. I'm curious to see what Darren will do next week. I want the ball again. Van Preter is a fun place to play, but anything can happen."

"Darin will pitch," said DePew. "Brids Harsanyi has done a great job for us, but Darin has the hot hand. We want to wrap it up so we don't have to play on the Labor Day weekend."

East Alton was without regular shortstop Eric Decker, so Schulmeister had to play there. Decker will be back this week. Blackledge said either King or Schulmeister — a former Chicago Cubs farmhand — could pitch Sunday.

Speedway has two-time winners

By Rick Stoff

Saturday was a great night for drivers who had already won one feature at Tri-City Speedway this year. Four of them became two-time winners.

As hundreds of children were sent back to school on Valvoline "Say No to Drugs" Night, Sonny Smyser, Rick Bayler, Phil Seltan and Tom Rataczky went back to victory lane.

Smyser turned in the fastest qualifying lap in the Clark Oil/UMP Late Model Series and turned in a flag-to-flag victory in the first feature. Ed Bauman, who locked up the late model season championship, was second and Mark Voigt was third.

MCGSA registration slated for Saturday

The Madison County Girls Soccer Association is having its annual open registration.

The first session was held Wednesday, and another session will be Saturday (Aug. 29) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Brown

Recreation Center, Franklin and Pontoon roads. All girls from ages 5-14 are welcome to play.

Anyone who cannot attend the registration can call 797-1880 or the MCGSA hotline at 877-3910.

LARRY WORTHAM, formerly with American and Granite City Steel, invites all of his former co-workers, friends and neighbors to stop by, say hello and discuss their transportation needs.
